

The Treasure Scriptures

CONSCIOUS VISIONARY ACTION

By Christel Rosenkilde Christensen

TREASURE WORLD LEADERS

Thank you, dear conscious game-changer. You have been on many journeys and chapters in your life, for you to now have this scripture come into your hands. Just as the world is at a crucial crossroads where our choices and actions are pivotal to where humanity is going, you too, are at a crossroads in your life. A new direction and a higher vibration in your frequency is needed to move forward and achieve the impact that you came here to make.

This crossroads has the potential to propel you into the place of your dreams and your vision for your life. Some of you have known your purpose and direction your entire life and others have only now come to realize the greater scope of your mission. The choices you make will contribute to the direction the world takes, too.

You are now ready to transcend and to fulfill the next part of your destiny

What you have in common with others receiving this first scripture, is that you are now ready to transcend, leaving a more exhausting chapter behind, to live your highest purpose, and to fulfill the next part of your destiny. This is the next and most significant chapter for you—but also for our world at large.

Many of you have already spent a lifetime inspiring people with your name, your influence, and your great results, and you are admired for your efforts.

From the spiritual plane we now need to support and uplift you to be in a league of your own. I am here to remind you that you matter, to remind you that every effort you make to make the world a better place, for people to live better lives and make our planet safe and whole again, is greatly appreciated, and so needed by the world.

We have moved into the age of Aquarius, where we will be for the next 2,000 years, leaving behind the age of Pieces, where patriarchy, institutionalization, and authority were the watchwords. This means that the world is ready for you, as a conscious visionary, to step forward and step into a new light. This time will only allow for more values-based actions, visions and strategies.

Be above the polarization we see today

For now, the world is polarized, and has been for a while. To be clear, both fanatic ends of the poles are adding to the drama and destruction we see around us. For example, extreme Trump fanatics and extreme anti-Trump activists continue to add to the fire; vaccine enforcement versus anti-vaxxers attempt to exclude and fight one another. But both sides are fueling the polarization. And these are just a few examples of deeper issues triggered in people on so many levels throughout our planet.

What can we do? According to my intuitive guidance, I am asked to share the importance of working towards becoming more centered, being strong and empowered from within, and keeping in touch with our connection to that which is greater than ourselves and reminding us of our life purpose. Of course, acknowledging this polarization needs to happen for a new and healthier paradigm to arise. We may believe that earlier days were more harmonious, but that is only a perception. The reality is that it only existed for a select few.

On an important note, I am not asking you to allow this destructive polarization to happen, living only in resignation to the suffering and the destruction, and to submit to the unjust ways of our world. On the contrary! We need to lift ourselves ABOVE it, and to do everything we can to build empowerment from within. We need to be there for each other, as conscious visionaries. And we need to do everything we can to build, share and communicate in the world. What will emerge is a new grouping of more conscious leaders. And this applies to ALL walks of life; there will be a few visionaries in every field.

A tipping point for new world leadership

Yet, conscious leaders need to understand that the safety of our children and the health and wellbeing of the planet depends upon the solutions WE find to raise the living standard of all, while making the world sustainable. I am not talking about living in less comfortable ways. I'm not talking about totally giving up on your comfort, as not flying a private jet, if that is the needed comfort, or giving up entirely on eating meat, if your body and mind are not there yet, or won't be in this lifetime, or never allow yourself a negative thought. I'm not saying NOT to do things; what I'm saying is that we need to find ways for our choices to be sustainable and empowering to life. There are alternatives or new ways. I encourage you to be curious and courageous to test out new ways. Applying the research and the solutions that have long been available but are now becoming more available and gaining momentum.

I agree with Elon Musk when he said, if he had a button to turn off the use of all fossil fuel today he would say 'no' because most things in the world at present are powered by fossil fuel, so even hospitals would not be able to function. We need to be realistic. As someone from Denmark, where 80% of our energy consumption is renewable energy, I know there is a better way and it is possible now — at this moment — to do things differently. So did the pandemic teach us, that within short time we all learned to work, live and contribute in a very different way. Yet, for change to happen there must be a willingness to do so. When the demand is there to find new and more sustainable solutions, they will appear, in all areas in life.

When we are able to trigger visionary action with a conscious group of leaders worldwide, things will reach a tipping point. At that point, a new normal can emerge—one where new leaders take it as a given that destruction and new solutions can no longer go hand-in-hand. That is when old patterns of destruction will fall away, and the war between extremes will give way to creation and harmony. For now, it is time to wake up conscious visionaries to move beyond poles and rise to take action for a better world.

You will change the world

In the meantime, spend your energy on becoming centered and more harmonious from within. Building strong rituals and being disciplined about living your best and most empowered life will, in turn, give you newly inspired power. Then, you will be in a good place to apply your inventive, genius thinking and energy to how to use your strengths, your influence, your network, your mission, and your voice to find new ways that have a positive impact. Vote for who you believe in or rise as a "new world politician" who has the courage to speak the truth and walk the talk for the greater good. Stop thinking that it is only politics that will change our world in the next decade. It is action at many levels by people like you and me; it is conscious individuals and activist youth who no longer accept life as it is because it will destroy a healthy life on this planet for all of us.

As Margaret Mead says:

*"Never doubt a small committed group of citizens can change the world.
It is the only thing that ever has."*

The world needs you to go deeper, to spend time in reflection, to listen to the more profound messages hidden like a treasure deep in the centre of your heart and psyche. Get in touch with the message that you brought with you from before birth, a message, a knowing and a mission to be revealed when you and the world are ready. And that time is now!

Break through false or outdated perceptions of who you are meant to be

Most of you already are on your highest path, but need to rethink your choices and actions, and break through false or outdated perceptions of who you are meant to be and what you are meant to create. There is more. And there are new ways that are either entirely different from anything you did or spoke of before, or new ways that can add to your existing scope. Whether minuscule or grand changes, the new guidance you receive as a new idea or insight can come to you through breathing, allowing time to listen, and making fundamental course corrections to how you live your life and contribute in the world.

I am talking about acquiring an extreme sense of clarity and connection to that which is greater than yourself. I am not talking about a religion or belief--that is yours alone. And yet all of you receiving this scripture directly from me or shared through a friend, will know that there is something greater. And you know deep inside that once you allow this divine inspiration to come through you, it will ripple through all your thoughts, choices and actions performing new and groundbreaking results. When nothing is stopping you, the energy you feel and the impact you can achieve is unlimited.

For nearly two decades now, my work has been to promote conscious leadership and be a psychic advisor for conscious leaders all around our beautiful planet. Whether with Christian executives in the Bible Belt in Houston, Hindu influencers in Mumbai, Muslim royalty in the Middle East, new age visionaries in LA, self-declared non-believers in Scandinavia, Buddhist spiritual advisors, or Jewish film producers,...I have seen an important difference in outcome when people connect to source, the divine, Allah, God, the great unknown, or other beautiful names for the force that we all have within us and are able to connect with around us. We all have the capacity to embody, apply and to be guided by the force within. Based on that experience, I promise you that no one connected to the greater force has ever believed that the way to achieve a greater result is to exhaust human or planetary resources through the relentless pursuit of a healthy bottom line. Building a better life for all of us needs to respect the boundaries of the natural world.

Diminish or ignite your true impact

Once we are connected and truly listening, and when we are connected to that greater source, then we can receive generative ideas, life re-enforcing ideas. We will breathe and remember the importance of our own harmony, our health, our time, and to give our energy to loved ones and those in need within our ability and reach. Knowing that our bodies and minds are a vessel for greatness is the base line for building. So, if we allow an imbalance to occur, there will be consequences. We will hurt ourselves, our loved ones, and the world around us and diminish the true impact we were meant to have. And that would be a shame, because we each have a legacy to leave before crossing over.

It is crucial that we continuously take care of our own wellbeing, peace, health and wealth, when trying to be everything that we can be in the world. Without our 'temple' -our mind and body and a high level of comfort - we do not have the energy to create innovation, and radically disrupt the status quo. Nor can we have the energy to carry out new possibilities in the world. Exhaustion cannot lead us to beauty, a healthy life, or optimal sustainable solutions. That is why good ideas often come in the shower or on an undisturbed walk in nature. During that moment of peace, when we relax and breathe as the water cleanses us or the weather caresses our face and envelope us in its purity. This is one of the few times in a day where we can detach from the energy field of our surroundings and just breathe, be alone, and indulge in self-care, detachment and cleansing. What follows is care, peace and time to connect. And that will always take us further than any form of pressure we put ourselves under.

It's up to each of us, and it is up to you now to lead the way from the highest form of self-discipline to going out and changing the world. You are the game-changer who can make crucial choices in how you think, how you choose, how you act, and how you communicate.

A reminder for us to look up -a message that we have been trying too hard

None of us are flawless. It is with the awareness of our flaws that we can rise and better ourselves. But a warning: striving for perfection can kill us. It can induce extreme stress. So, don't indulge in a fanatical reach for perfection. Yet another guideline for a higher conscious way of living. Also don't expect perfection from your surroundings - outer forces pressure us out of the bubble of achieved greatness to aim higher. Sometimes our children are ill, angry and in distress. Sometimes loved ones die. Others will go through divorce. And sometimes even simple things like not being able to get the right food or a construction site goes up next to your home. All these events are part of life. Still, we can be aware of what is best for us, and organize ourselves so we get it most of the time. And when we don't, we can laugh about it and take it as a reminder to look up, that we here are invited to experience or choose something different than our comfort zone. Sometimes it is a message that we have been trying too hard and have forgotten to enjoy the very part of being alive and having a human experience.

Live your most illuminated and empowered life and make magic happen for you

The time is now - for you to live your most illuminated and empowered life and make magic happen for you, your people, and the world at large as you step up and choose to become part of a positive force for good.

1. Your breath is the catalyst for your soul to come into action.

Breathe... Take several 30 seconds breaks during your day with deep breathing. It will work wonders for you – no one will notice a 30 second's delay. And here, I don't mean in your meditation practice alone, but also during the day, when life is in play. You want oxygen for your cells and your brain. You want to be connected to source before interacting, making both minor and big decisions; because you never know what will make a difference.

2. What you focus on grows. Make sure you don't waste energy on things that don't encourage happiness, health, protection of life, success, positive impact or nurturing your loved ones. If you find yourself in conflict, only respond necessarily, and find people to assist you with the conflict. Do not let yourself get overwhelmed with the emotions of being let down, provoked, or hurt. Breathe, call someone to help you let go -not to suppress, but to let go. Your loved ones and future generations need you to focus on your path, not on what disturbs your path.

3. Know that this time in history is not to be wasted. Keep reflecting on what your experience has taught you, how you can put it into play in a new way, and how you can change your life and actions to be a visible front runner – not hiding your ideals but passing on the opportunity for your network to rise to a new level. See today as a new opportunity to be a force for good and take visionary action. It doesn't always have to be in the big areas of our lives and work. Sometimes the area for action is in aspects you hadn't even thought were significant. Often, that is where the treasure lies. Other times everything has to change – you know deep inside what you need to do.

4. Decide to walk through life and the world uplifting people.

Uplifting others requires nothing more of us than a more positive and visionary outlook. We may be tired, and we may be exhausted. We may need encouragement. But this scripture is here for you: to uplift and encourage you, so you know you are not alone. Use this time in your life to be uplifting to even more people than usual. Having more resources, mentally, financially, intuitively, and in terms of ideas and a greater perspective... a greater capacity also bring with it a greater responsibility to give back. Just know that when you contribute, uplift, or change something for the better for another human being, animal or planet ... it will come back to you as energy, multiplied by ten. That can only happen if you have the energy to do so, being connected, if you remember to breathe deeply, and if you allow yourself to feel the positive exchange. Then great energy is ignited within you, too.

5. Do not allow yourself to be mediocre. Remember when tired we don't have the energy to make the best choices. Commit to rebuild your energies. Breathe and once again make the best and most illuminated choices... in the way you nurture your health, the way you think, choose and act, in your personal life, with relations and in your work and mission. Whoever you are or wherever you live, whatever your mission and challenges at hand, rise once again from exhaustion, breathe and make the extra effort. Know that the world is now ready to receive, and you are ready to once again rise with renewed energy and passion. You have experienced and learned a lot in the process and there is a crossroads now where conscious visionaries are needed for the best possible outcome –in the most crucial time in history. Make sure to give new life to your ideas, missions and visions and inspire others to do the same – NOW!

Switch on the master key of the next level of your consciousness

It's up to all of us as individuals to switch on the master key of the next level of consciousness to repair what has gone wrong and to enlighten the world following a long period of the unconscious use of our free will, without considering the far-reaching consequences of our actions for people and the planet.

There is not so much malicious intent behind this tragedy as there is ignorance or a lack of opportunity to unlock the innate awareness within. Regardless, the time to change that is now.

"The only thing necessary for the triumph of evil, is for good men to do nothing"
- Edmund Burke

Now it is your responsibility and your turn to fully awaken the lion or lioness within, and to seize the opportunity you have been given. First, breathe deeply and connect with your voice, your message, your innate wisdom, and the treasures given to you before birth. Your treasure and passion to guide your free will can empower your thoughts, choices, actions and voice in all areas of your life. The time has come for a better life, a healthier and more conscious result creation process, and achievements that will lead to a better world, now and for future generations.

Thank you for being one of the conscious game-changers future generations are waiting for.
